Race Night – 18th October 2008

That's right... the world famous Explorer Scouts' Race Night is back for its SEVENTH amazing year!

For those uninitiated folks amongst you, the Race Night is a spectacle to behold. We project a series of horse race films onto a big screen, build up that racing atmosphere, and give you the opportunity to place bets on those sure-fire nags. 50 pence on Dobbin? You could win millions*!

In true bookmaker style, of course, we take a cut... but you can be sure that in the unlikely event that you don't come away with your mortgage paid off, you'll have contributed to the Kent Air Ambulance, 20th Gillingham Group funds, and the Explorer Unit's kitty. The latter two of which go towards providing excellent facilities and experiences for our young people, and the former of which rescues us when we fall off mountains.

It gets even better! You've got the opportunity to buy a horse in advance, for the princely sum of £2. You choose the name of the horse, and both you and the horse appear in lights in our programme! Forget five minutes of fame – this will give you three HOURS of it!

* - winning of millions is not guaranteed. The value of your horse may go down as well as up, unless it's called Northern Rock, in which case, sorry.

 - while stocks of genuine nosebags last. Otherwise, plates will be supplied. Boring we know, but...
